

World Wildlife Fund - WWF - Worldwildlife.org

Wildlife Drawings by Rafael Araujo

Issue: Summer 2014

Venezuelan landscape painter Rafael Araujo's fascination with perspective drawing started at a young age as he studied the natural mathematical patterns he observed in leaves from his family orchard. "The seed was sown; from there I discovered the geometric formulas to draw all kinds of shells, spirals and, finally, butterflies," he says about his left-brain-meets-right-brain Cálculo series. To see more, visit rafael-araujo.com.

Explore More

Return to the Table of Contents

Explore more magazine material

View the magazine archive

Discover past issues of World Wildlife

Support WWF

For $10/month, receive World Wildlife in print

About

World Wildlife magazine provides an inspiring, in-depth look at the connections between animals, people and our planet. Published quarterly by WWF, the magazine helps make you a part of our efforts to solve some of the most pressing issues facing the natural world.

Get the latest conservation news with WWF email.

Already have a WWF account?

World Wildlife Fund

1250 24th Street, N.W.
Washington, DC 20037